

Susanne Cox

Even though Susanne attended a denominational church in her formative years, she was an alcoholic by age 16 and addicted to cocaine by her early twenties. A miraculous salvation experience at age 31 radically transformed her life and the Lord instantly set her free from depression, suicidal thoughts and addictions and filled her with a great hunger to know and serve Him. Upon graduation from Rhema Bible College in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Susanne served in Sri Lanka and India. Her last overseas assignment was working with Home of Hope, a Teen Challenge Ministry near New Delhi which rescues young girls from prostitution rings.

Susanne is an ordained minister in the Assemblies of God and currently serves on the National women in Leadership Committee for the Assemblies of God. She is married to Rev. Ron Cox, Senior Pastor of Kingwood Church, Alabaster, Alabama. Overcoming hardships related to chemical addictions and difficult life situations has enabled Susanne to minister encouragement to others through her ministry, Legacy of Hope. Susanne & Ron’s testimonies bring a message of God’s faithfulness and grace. Their heart for missions inspires their local church family to join with them in reaching their community and the world with the legacy of Jesus Christ.
